

Right lighting can boost student concentration, well-being

'A well-designed LED lighting system can improve student concentration, health, well-being and productivity levels while lowering stress and creating a better mood.' Lighting Council of Australia

The right lighting solution and good lighting design is essential to create a quality learning environment which increases attention spans, improves student mood, regulates alertness, well-being, performance and health.

enLighten's Skyline panel is engineered to give a uniform, low glare and flicker free light to ensure the highest level of lighting comfort in the classroom. Using superior optical design with greater than 90% light uniformity, Skyline has an ultra-long life span of >120,000 hours and saves up to 67% in energy savings.

enLighten's in-house designers understand the complex needs of the educational environment and are on call to advise schools wanting classroom lighting that will help students to achieve their optimal performance.
